

Core Values

Respect: We respect children and families as experts of their own experience.

A Non-Judgemental Approach: We take a non-judgemental approach to our practice.

We Value Individual Differences: We do not see children of prisoners and their families as all the same. We acknowledge individual differences and support each family in a bespoke manner.

We are Child and Family Led: We work collaboratively with families and we are child and family led.

We Respect Family Expertise: Whilst we recognise the significant trauma that children and families face when a parent is sent to prison we do not position our families as victims, but as competent and able people with much to offer

Reflection and Growth: We are not content to simply stick to our ways of working. Instead, we constantly try to find new and better solutions to the challenges our families face.

We take a Person-Centred Approach: We offer possible solutions and coping mechanisms but respect the families' choice on what advice they wish to take or not take.

Partnership Work: We recognise the children we serve are best supported when we work in partnership with other third sector and statutory agencies. We take the safeguarding of children seriously.

We are Changemakers: We strive to advocate for the rights of our children and families locally, nationally and internationally.
